Corporate Profile

BIOLASE, Inc. is a biomedical company that develops, manufactures and markets dental lasers and also distributes and markets dental imaging equipment. Our products utilize technologies that advance the practice of dentistry and medicine at the molecular level. Our laser products incorporate approximately 290 patented and patent-pending technologies. Our dental laser systems perform a broad range of procedures, including cosmetic and complex surgical applications, and are designed to provide biologically clinically superior performance with less pain and faster recovery times than are generally achieved with drills, scalpels, and other dental instruments. The dental imaging products we sell provide cutting-edge technology at competitive prices to deliver the best results for dentists and patients. Other products under development address ophthalmology and other medical and consumer markets.

BIOLASE offers two categories of laser system products. Our WaterLase systems use a patented combination of water and laser energy to perform most procedures currently performed using dental drills, scalpels, and other traditional dental instruments for cutting soft and hard tissue. Our diode systems, including the new EPIC 10, perform soft tissue surgery, tooth whitening and pain therapy. We launched the EPIC 10 in the U.S. and EU in early Q4 and late Q3 2012, respectively, immediately upon receiving regulatory clearance.

WaterLase®, iPlus™, and EPIC™ are trademarks of BIOLASE, Inc.
