AMD Investor Blog - The View from Our Corner of The Street

January 17, 2018

Let's face it. Things are exciting at AMD these days. The large and growing markets that we address have something to do with it. Launching three major new product lines in a one year period has something to do with it. Re-entering the datacenter server market after a long hiatus has something to do with it. And our greatly improved balance sheet has something to do with it.

Much is written about AMD daily, and we have much to share on our own. There are times when we would like to follow-up on each news report about AMD, but that just isn't possible. So welcome to AMD's IR blog – the best place to get information and updates about news and information related to AMD. It is the chance to share our unique viewpoint with investors – the view from our corner of The Street.

You can subscribe to our blog to receive notifications each time we post a newsworthy item. We promise not to spam you. For starters, watch this clip of our CEO on CNBC to hear her perspective on AMD's business opportunities. After that, we hope you will spend time on our IR home page to learn about all things AMD. Product information? Financial results? It's all on here. We are particularly proud of the "AMD 101" section which points investors to some of our most relevant content.
