Corporate Profile

Applied Micro Circuits Corporation is a global leader in computing and connectivity solutions for next-generation cloud infrastructure and data centers. AppliedMicro delivers silicon solutions that dramatically lower total cost of ownership.

Our flagship X-Gene Server on a Chip™ product will lead our product portfolio in hyperscale data centers, significantly increasing our overall addressable market. We anticipate our new addressable market will consist of server solutions for cloud data centers and enterprise applications, data center connectivity solutions and a variety of related products.

X-Gene builds on our history as a global leader in providing energy-efficient, sustainable solutions to process and transport information for current and next generation networks. Our leadership in 64-bit custom ARM-based processors, mixed-signal design and high speed signal processing, Internet protocol, OTN and Ethernet packet processing, and embedded processor System-on-Chip (SoC) design positions us well to provide fully integrated high-bandwidth, high performance solutions.

Our base business consists of a broad array of connectivity and embedded computing products. Corporate headquarters are located in Sunnyvale, California.
